

Capdown, Dealer Fever

you say it's driving you insane but you'll never be the same, cos you'll lose all the power that's in your head well i knew him back from skool days so i caught him right before he got hisself and ego and gave his life to selling draw i understand his problems but he lost me with his answers and now he's looking round for someone else to blame you're acting like we're not the same like selling drugs should bring you fame but i dont see it aint your prowess that keeps them knocking at you door you is the man you think you're godfather untill the baylon them gone come after oh what a shame

you were gonna be so different now the greed's takin' over
oh what a shame
cos your thingking was so different but now ths greed's taking over it's the dealer fever you gotta break from the fever.