

Capercaillie, You

Man's illusions fill my mind, like a sacred flower I have to find
The changing seasons work their charm, clouding these times of calm

But only you can kiss the pain away
And only you can wish the rains away
Only you, Only you
know how to make me feel this way

Your hand can heal my blinding eyes, your fingers melt my icy ways
Words, whispers, sighs and cries, your world becomes my time alive

But only you can kiss the pain away
And only you can wish the rains away
Only you, Only you
know how to make me feel this way

Snows are melting here tonight, winds are silent, fading light
My eyes well like a rising tide, my feet will walk the final mile

But only you can kiss the pain
And only you can wish the rains away
Only you, Only you
know how to make me feel this way