Cat Stevens, Lovely City (when Do You Laugh?)

Lovely city, when do you laugh? Stony people, what do you have? Well, you ride around on a bright shiny cloud And you think that you've found true happiness There's no method in your mind and your tempers are kind Is it too much to ask to give it a rest? Lovely city, when do you laugh? Stony people, what do you have? I'm a part of you, you don't wanna be I'm an unexpected visitor who's dropped in for tea But I'm not so low, you don't even know that I'm here You can't even see Lovely city, when do you laugh? Stony people, what do you have? Lovely city, when do you laugh? Stony people, what do you have?
