

Chad Brock, That Changed Me

The grass was green, the sky was blue
Had my Sunday clothes, my shiny shoes
My Dad had teardrops rolling down
As they put Grandpa in the ground
Only 8 years old, but I remember everything
That changed me

Her breath smelt like bubblegum
She kissed me in front of everyone
I wiped it off for all my friends
But my heart wouldn't let me wash my hand
Seventh grade I acted just as cool as cool could be
And that changed me

I guess some moments in this life are stepping stones
They shape you, and take you a little farther on
And Heaven only knows exactly where they lead
Or who I'll be, when God's through changing me

Twenty One with my new wife
She sure changed my life
I thought love so deep don't happen twice
But it did

My last name on her little wristband
I had to call my Mom and Dad
Describe her tiny nose and ears
I didn't even try to hide my tears
'Cause holding that baby made me a different man
Yea that changed me

I guess some moments in this life are stepping stones
They shape you and take you a little farther on
And Heaven only knows exactly where they lead
Or who I'll be, when God's through changing me
And he's still changing me
