

Chamber - L'Orchestre De Chambre Noir, The Th

Ten dwarfs walking whistling, singing joking, bouncing making noise ten? ... ten! had some drinks after work now they're heading towards home

But they're in for a big surprise, they're about to meet snow-white

red lips
white skin
black hair snow-white has flirt bit, bint, wench
fairy-whore

snow: white
blood: red heart: black
snow-white has
minx, slut slag, tart
fairy-whore

One dwarf had a heart-attack he couldn't face the mess another having no more weed spiralled in deep depressions three and four killed each other in a jealous fury number five, with other tendencies escaped to find his prince

Meanwhile, comatose, happy in a dwarf's warm bed:
snow-white!

red lips...

After years of subservience they were close to death a pathetic prince appeared with gleeful number five in tow snow-white, bored of midgets and obvious shortfalls seduced the man; of course eloping with the somewhat less pathetic prince she left the dwarfs, helpless, in a mess red: red white: white black: black ebony

snow: snow blood: blood
fairy whore

Seven dwarfs walking whistling, singing joking, bouncing, making noise they all recovered very quickly once surrounded by their friends they hired a retired sorceress as protection for their home just in case another day snow-white comes along

Meanwhile, comatose, happy in his bed: the prince!

red lips...

Music: R. Hoffmann

Words: M. Testory, P. Maunder, R. Hoffmann