

Chapman, Burning Bridges

Some friends I chose
And some friends I lost
Some became my enemies
But they all became my past

I used to disappear
I just couldn't stay
There was always a reason
For leaving one day

I've been burning bridges
All my life
Every bond is flammable
And easy to light

I've been leaving ashes
Where I used to be
I've burnt all my bridges
Do you remember me

When I was a child
I let them in my home
They only came to break my toys
And make me feel alone

Sitting in my room
I didn't feel the same
I closed the door to save myself
And stood there in the flames

I've been burning bridges
All my life
Every bond is flammable
And easy to light

I've been leaving ashes
Where I used to be
I've burnt all my bridges
Do you remember me

If you wondered why
You didn't hear from me
If I didn't say goodbye
Don't take it personally

Want to feel more trust
I don't need another fight
I want to stay
Not walk away
From those who really care

I've been burning bridges
All my life
Every bond is flammable
And easy to light

I've been leaving ashes
Where I used to be
I've burnt all my bridges
Do you remember me
