

Charley Pride, Good Chance Of Tearfall Tonight

When we met you brought the sunshine in the summer of our love
And like the sun then everything was bright
Your love changes like the weather now there's dark clouds up above
And there's a good chance of tearfall tonight
Your love is like the weather it changes every day
Summer has turned to winter and nothing's right
The forecast is cold and lonely since you went away
And there's a good chance of tearfall tonight

[steel]

Now I'm living in the winter of a love that used to be
Me and the clouds are low since you're gone
The rain has started falling as I think of you and me
And there's a good chance of tearfall all night long
Your love is like the weather...
And there's a good chance of tearfall tonight
