

Charlie Louvin, Kind Of Man I Am

We moved from where we lived so we could start again
When you told me you'd forgive me if I'd change
But it really doesn't matter what town we're in Cause I answer when temptation calls my name

There's a devil inside me that pushes and guides me away from you
And your love cannot hold me when patience control me I can't be true
The far off devotion is drowned by emotions I can't understand
And not even your sweet love can change the kind of man I am

I fight the guilt and shame that's deep in my mind
I can't put out the fire of desire that burns in my soul
I try to hide the evil inside but that's when I find
That there's a part of me I can't control

There's a devil inside me...
And not even your sweet love can change the kind of man I am
