

Charlie Peacock, Hiring a Worker

I get a good feeling about him
Like he's special and very honest
He can do the job and do it well
His appearance is professional
I like his sound and I like his style
Hiring a worker is a difficult task
You learn about them by the questions you ask
If they'll work, if they'll stay
If they'll do just what you say
I get a good feeling about him
Like he's special and very modest
He can do the job and do it well
His appearance is professional
I like his hat and I like his coat
Hiring a worker is a difficult task
You learn about them by the questions you ask
If they'll work, if they'll stay
If they'll do just what you say
Well, there's a long line of young men looking for a job
A few of them are qualified, most of them are not
Some are very eager, some could care less
But I will only hire those who pass my test
I get a good feeling about him
He's got a clue about what to do
He can do the job and do it well
His appearance is professional
I like his sound of his saxophone
Hiring a worker is a difficult task
You learn about them by the questions you ask
If they'll work, if they'll stay
If they'll do just what you say
