

Charon, All I Care Is Dying

It's something I scared, it's something I scared
A lot These days
It's something I had and something I lost
Already it hurts, already it places me to wait
To wait the day I had to pay

So hard to say, so hard to say that it's too late
It's something I had and something I lost
It started to rain, it started to rain from my veins
And all I give is worth of giving

All I care is dying
All I care is dying slow
Oh, why this pain inside when you're the one
Who's heart is burning down

The one you are the one you'll drown
The one who's heart is burning down
