Cheap Trick, Carnival Game

It was a masquerade at Mardi Gras

That was the only trip that I recall Every time I turned around at all

There was you

Some days are easier said than done

Always expecting something's wrong

I'd rather live alone than drag this on

Take your time, please lay your hands on me

Don't wanna be alone, oh no

A mask behind the face and then you're gone

Oh yeah, comes a time when you're better off alone, you're on your own

I've got a kaleidoscope of memories

Visions of you locked up inside of me

Can't you see

We once collided like a broken wheel

So undecided what was real

Maybe a crash somehow has sex appeal

Whatever turns you on

Take your time, please lay your hands on me

Don't wanna be alone, oh no

A mask behind a face and then you're gone

Oh yeah, comes a time when you're better off alone

One down, one to go

Oh no, playin' in a carnival your time is gone

One down, one to go

Oh no, playin' in a carnival, you're all alone

One down, one to go

Oh no, you're on your own
