

Chemical Vocation, True Story Of Mine

A boy brought to life
To a family that seemed perfect
But that was all a lie
Cause his father drank too much
He drank too much
They separated and he
Only he was free
He didn't understand then but now he does

You can't see it in his Eyes
All the hate that grows from inside
Everyday he wears a nastier scar
He have to take it all
If I am screaming at you

Can't take this anymore
I've been living in a cage
Have to break out
I've been sorting out my life
I was a little boy
But not anymore
Have to break out
Or am I too (Late)

You can't see it in my eyes
All the hate that grows from inside
Everyday he wears a nastier scar
Not anymore instead I (Scream at you)

All this time I never had a father
Just because I'm showing myself mean
I don't feel like him
I am lucky to have a girl by my side
Otherwise I'd lose my breath in here (I'd lose)

Instead of crying I'll scream at you, I'll scream at you
Instead of crying I'll scream at you, I'll scream at you
Instead of crying I'll scream at you, I'll scream at you
Instead of crying I'll scream at you, I'll scream at you

Instead of crying I'll scream at you
Instead of crying I'll scream at you
Instead of crying I'll scream at you
Instead of crying I'll scream at you
Instead of crying I'll scream at you
Instead of crying I'll scream at you
Instead of crying I'll scream at you
Instead of crying I'll fucking (Scream at you)
