

Chicago, All Roads Lead To You

Headed north on a one way trip
I never thought I'd be back this way
Never thought I'd be missing you
Enough to suffer for the whole night through
Headed south and I didn't look back
I rolled the wind off the beaten track
Tried running from the thought of you
Hunted down by what I know is true
To the north, to the south
It don't matter
Every road leads to you
I'm coming home.....
All roads lead to you
Wherever I go
Every time I told you
I was just passing through
What my heart didn't know
Was all roads lead to you
Headed east on an Amtrak train
I hit the city in the pouring rain
Never thought I'd be calling you
Every hour from that hotel room
Headed west on a jumbo jet
I rode off into the red sunset
Stood there knocking on the devil's door
Wondering what the hell I'm searching for
To the east to the west
It don't matter
Every road leads to you
I'm coming home.....
All roads lead to you
Wherever I go
Every time I told you
I was just passing through
What my heart didn't know
Was all roads lead to you
All my life
The winding road I followed
Has led me straight to your arms
All roads lead to you
Gotta Get back to you baby!
Wherever I go
Every time I told you
I was just passing through
What my heart didn't know
Was all roads lead to you
I'm coming home to you baby!
All roads lead to you
I'm coming home!
All roads lead to you
Never going away again!
All roads lead to you
All roads lead to you
All roads lead to you
All roads lead to you
Gotta get back to you baby....
