Chicago, Paradise Alley

(Written by: Robert Lamm)

Come on in, have a look around Hang your hat and find a chair The pretty women smile at you The party's just beginning There's music everywhere

Paradise alley Paradise alley

Paradise alley

Brothers got to stick together here Fight with one, you fight with three The family blood is thick as mud Day to day the world keeps spinning

Paradise alley Paradise alley Paradise alley

It reminds you of who you used to be And who you are, and who you'll always be

It finds you in pursuit of dreams

And hopeless schemes Life is richer than it seems

Nothing like being in a woman's arms The one you love, the one you want

There's one small problem, who can she be I feel like winning her in paradise alley

Paradise alley Paradise alley

I'm gonna take you there

Paradise alley Paradise alley

I'm gonna take you there Take you to the paradise
