Chris Rice, Big Enough

None of us knows and that makes it a mystery If life is a comedy, then why all the tragedy Three-and-a-half pounds of brain try to figure out What this world is all about And is there an eternity, is there an eternity? God if You're there I wish You'd show me And God if You care then I need You to know me I hope You don't mind me askin' the questions But I figure You're big enough I figure You're big enough Lying on pillows we're haunted and half-awake Does anyone hear us pray, If I die before I wake Then the morning comes and the mirror's the other place Where we wrestle face to face with the image of Deity The image of Deity God if You're there I wish You'd show me And God if You care then I need You to know me I hope You don't mind me askin' the questions But I figure You're big enough I figure You're big enough When I imagine the size of the universe And I wonder what's out past the edges Then I discover inside me a space as big And believe that I'm meant to be Filled up with more than just questions So, God if You're there I wish You'd show me And God if You care then I need You to know me I hope You don't mind me askin' the questions But I figure You're big enough I figure You're big enough
