

Chuck Wicks, What If You Stay

I cant make you turn around
And I cant take back what I did
I wouldnt blame you if you hated me
Before you slam that open door
And throw away four good years
Think of everything we used to be
I know you say that youre over me
But Im askin you, beggin you not to leave
What if I told you Ive changed
Would you still walk away
What if I told you I loved you
Would you say that its too late
What if you could feel what I feel
When I watch you slowly drift away
What if youre wrong
What if Im right
That you could move on
What if you stay
I know right now its hard to breathe
Hard to think and hard to see
All the reasons we should work it out
It might be easier to go,
But if you walk out, youll never know
How strong we could be at the end of this
I know that sorry is not enough
But Ill do everything, anything to make it up
What if I told you Ive changed
Would you still walk away
What if I told you I loved you
Would you say that its too late
What if you could feel what I feel
When I watch you slowly drift away
What if youre wrong
What if Im right
That you could move on
What if you stay
What if I told you Ive changed
Would you still walk away
What if I told you I loved you
Would you say that its too late
What if you could feel what I feel
When I watch you slowly drift away
What if youre wrong
What if Im right
You could move on
What if you stay
Oooooo
I cant make you turn around
And I cant take back what I did
I wouldnt blame you if you hated me
