

Clap Your Hands Say Yeah, Clap Your Hands!

Run the lip off sunshine shore
Betray white water, delay dark forms
Slap young waves on wooden bones
Don't touch the laughter and away we go

Away we go (And away we go)
Away we go (Away we go)
Away we go (And away we go)
Away we go (Away)

Clap your hands (But I feel so lonely)
Clap your hands (But it won't do nothing)
Just clap your hands (But I have no money)
Just clap your hands (But it don't seem like me)
Yeah, clap your hands (Are you up to something?)
Clap your hands (Where's my milk and honey?)
Just clap your hands (But I just look funny)
And clap your hands
I'll just wait awhile

As time alone stands still for some
Stuffed sailor up, up with eyeball sun
And if by castle ship should stray
It has like you no chosen fate
For it's tongue-tied caboose that leads this ragged lad
This finger-flipping mom and dad
For what is worth some aimless steer
And should not confuse my foggy mirror
Reveal what is not there
I shall take this unbound train and flow away
