Clap Your Hands Say Yeah, Clap Your Hands!

Run the lip off sunshine shore Betray white water, delay dark forms Slap young waves on wooden bones Don't touch the laughter and away we go

Away we go (And away we go) Away we go (Away we go) Away we go (And away we go) Away we go (Away)

Clap your hands (But I feel so lonely) Clap your hands (But it won't do nothing) Just clap your hands (But I have no money) Just clap your hands (But it don't seem like me) Yeah, clap your hands (Are you up to something?) Clap your hands (Where's my milk and honey?) Just clap your hands (But I just look funny) And clap your hands I'll just wait awhile

As time alone stands still for some Stuffed sailor up, up with eyeball sun And if by castle ship should stray It has like you no chosen fate For it's tongue-tied caboose that leads this ragged lad This finger-flipping mom and dad For what is worth some aimless steer And should not confuse my foggy mirror Reveal what is not there I shall take this unbound train and flow away
