

Clifford T. Ward, Let's Be Fools Again

There were days long ago
When your smile came across
With the wind in your hair
And the rain on your face and
Laugh we could
Come on let's laugh again.

We were young, we were free
We were foolish and poor, couldn't care
We had time
We were careless for sure and
Cry we did
C'mon let's cry again.

STRINGS

There was you, there was me
And a crowd would be three
But we could not prevail
Though we fought to agree and
Lose we did
C'mon let's lose again.

Well I could sing, I could shout
I could scream the place down
But I won't lest I stumble
Make a fool of myself, I've Done it before
Let's be fools again

Let's be fools again
Let's be fools again
Let's be fools again.
