

Clint Black, A Woman Has Her Way

In a world of confusion I follow my heart
Beyond all my shadows of doubt
Way past the illusions a true work of art
Just when I had it all figured out.

And you may not understand, it's a mystery to me
Love a lady a lifetime, you still might not see
There's no use in trying, you won't have any say
A man has his will but a woman has her way.

It can't be done with mirrors, there's no slight of hand
And nothing her perfume could do
But it's something much bigger than mere mortal man
That can make someone special for you.

And you may not understand, it's a mystery to me
Love a lady a lifetime, you still might not see
There's no use in trying, you won't have any say
A man has his will but a woman has her
Man has his will but a woman has her way...