Colin James, Hide

Tell me which way is up, cuz I never get there Feels like I'm stuck in the mud,
(Feels like I'm goin' nowhere)

I need a new kind of sign, not just "stop" every time
You try to talk and just keep on tryin'

C'mon, throw me a bone (C'mon throw me a bone)
Thought you'd leave me alone (Thought you'd leave me alone)
Spend another night goin' over and over all the things that you said we shoulda known

You're hidin', baby
In the time it takes me
to see what I've done wrong you'll be gone.
(x2)

Something set you right off, so you took off without sayin'
If I'd have known what it was (I mighta stopped all the playin')

Now I'm lyin' like lead,
on your side of the bed,
Feelin' something unwind in my head

You gotta turn out a shine (gotta turn out a shine) on your two-dollar shoes (on your two-dollar shoes)
Will the nail in your heart,
stop it flyin all apart,
when what you've done dawns on you

You're hidin' baby
In the time it takes me
To see what I've done wrong
You'll be gone
You're hidin' baby
In the time it takes me
To see what I've done wrong
You'll be gone

Oh if it gets too much
All of my messing it up
I keep on trying to read your mind
And figure out what makes you want to run