

Conway Twitty, Blue Eyes Crying In The Rain

In the twilight glow, I see her
As we kissed goodbye and parted,
Blue eyes cryin' in the rain;
I knew we'd never meet again.

Through the ages I'll remember,
Love is like a dying ember,
Only memories remain;

Blue eyes cryin' in the rain.
All my life I've loved in vain;
Now my hair has turned to silver,

I can see her star in heaven,
Blue eyes cryin' in the rain.

We'll stroll hand in hand again;
Someday when we meet up yonder,

And in a land that knows no parting,
Blue eyes crying in the rain.
Blue eyes crying in the rain...
