

Cord, Never Been

I am drowning much too fast for time I can recognize
Simple meanings seem so real when you know where you got to go
I don't know how I get so down
It's never been this good
It's never been this good
It's never been this good
If words don't hurt then how do I ever say what I want to say
Caring smiles open arms what I found, when I turned around
How do you tell this life from hell
All of the times that you said that is wasn't for real
Feelings inside that I often can never reveal
It's expected of me when I am always so eager to say
It's all ok
Cause it seems that I've been found in the crowd
