Cowboy Junkies, You Will Be Loved Again

How could he take you in his arms And help you to be free Then leave you forgotten And is it enough to cry? When you're so broken...

Her cold eyes tell you you're not welcome She tells lies but you'll take her back again And is it enough to die? When you're so taken

You will be loved again You will be loved again

But will she sing and will she dance And will she forever And will he sing and will he dance And will he forever

Someday you will feel a love so deep And you'll find someone not lost in sleep

And you will be loved again You will be loved again You will be loved again