Cranes, Let Go

Like all our love that comes to an end A flame of our love, a flame without end We touch awhile, say Goodbye again Here's to love and our scattered friends...

On top of the world... our day without end, the hope in your heart is starting to mend And you know where you are at this time in your life, Under your Star and it's shining so bright..

Here's the love On which we depend Here's to love And our scattered friends