

Crematory, Revolution

They'll never stop our will to live free from pain and fear they cannot bring us down all your gird go out and justify the revolution

The beginning of the age - to start revolution now break and leave their cage - time for revolution take those traitors away from us - and start revolution giving back belief and trust - so live the revolution

This reign of fear built of not ending empty promises strange liars old betrayers because they've failed the aim there is just one world we live in - justify the revolution

Teaching mankind to fight each other (never again) but would you like to kill your brother? never - never again

It's time for - so start a - and live the - revolution
