

Crimson Glory, In Dark Places

Waves pound the gloomy shores, I watch them roll across my feet so warm I know she's waiting there for me In ancient rhymes she whispers in the wind a strange and haunting melody As it fills the silence, I feel the shivers cold embrace my soul
From the deep she beckons me promising eternity
In a world where nothing's real beyond this realm of light and dreams You, mystic moon it's you who rules the night breathing life into my dreams I see your face in nightmares shining bright So, it's farewell to you my sunlit world so full of hate and misery
You see I just can't take it anymore From my sleep you beckon me
promising eternity
In your world of mystery to your realm of harmony
In dark places
In dark places we will be forever beyond the light
In dark places we'll be free from the pain that fills our lives Through arching moonbeams of light we glide in bending shadows of warm starlight Angels of colors light the night as they fly transcending into the electric sky
In dark places
In dark places we will be
forever beyond the light
from the pain that fills our lives
In dark places we will be
forever beyond the light In dark places we will see worlds we've always dreamed
