Crossfade, Deep End

I built my life like my bike on a rigid frame So nothing bends it only breaks into pieces and pieces I waited for hope to arrive but it never came Leaving me with only pain inside I'm going off the deep end

Holding on is harder than it seems When you're reaching for so much more

Seems so much easier to just give in When you're reaching for so much more

Another wasted Saturday so here I stay Where nothing seems to ever change anyway hey All this hype about life bein' great Where's the love for me these days I'm goin off the deep end