

Crystal Bernard, Call It Love

You caught my eye without trying
You stole my heart away
From clear across the room
Somehow it was plain you felt the same
Looking back now we can't say
Exactly how we knew
All a wise man needs
Is one glimpse of destiny

There's an ancient fire deep in every heart
That no one but the perfect match can start
Like a bolt of lightning flashing in the dark
When fate lights forever up
Call it magic, call it love

Until that night love at first sight was
Just a childish fantasy
Like wishing on a star
And if you ask me now, don't ask me how
All I can say is I believe
The proof is in my heart
Nature's strongest force
Will always take it's course

There's an ancient fire deep in every heart
That no one but the perfect match can start
Like a bolt of lightning flashing in the dark
When fate lights forever up
Call it magic, call it love

Like a bolt of lightning flashing in the dark
When fate lights forever up
Call it magic, call it love
