Crystal Gayle, Funny

Funny, funny you don't resemble what i had in mind funny as it seems every night you're in my dreams ooh baby I never thought that love could be so crazy crazy it may be but you're the only one for me i knew you as a child we both were running wild and love had never crossed our minds but that was long ago and little did i know love would sneak up from behind funny, funny there's no explaining what's come over me there's nothing i can do but hope that you love me too

I'd miss the glamoured love that twinkles up above and fades just like a shooting star but now I'm back on earth I see how much you're worth and now that we really are Funny, funny there's no explaining what's come over me there's nothing I can do I'm so in love with you
