

Curt Smith, I Will Be There

Holding rightly on to something you believe
It's getting harder when we practice to deceive
But you know when night falls

I will be there
I will be there
I will be there to hold and guide you
Dark is the night that hides the light from your eyes

I will be there to hold and guide you

Come the morning life is keeping you in chains
But don't you be afraid to call out my name
I come to you in the blue rain
Let the tears fall

I will be there
I will be there
I will be there to hold and guide you
Dark is the night that hides the light from your eyes
I will be there to stand beside you

Now I can see the shadows over you
Thunder rolls but the light breaks through
And there are times in my life
I know that love is true
And I need you know

I will be there
I will be there
I will be there to stand beside you
I won't let another night steal the light from your eyes
I will be there
I will be there
I will be there to hold and guide you
When the dream inside you cries just lift up your eyes
I will be there...
