Darren Hayes, Light

Light It flickers Your light Travelling down so deep Illumination I have been cold, I have been blind You have come to change my mind I can put my faith in you Light It blisters Your light Coming down so bright Transformation Turn it up Give me some room to grow Turn it up Give me that sense to know I have been cold, I have been blind You were sent to change my mind I can put my faith in you From something ordinary It's so extraordinary I trust, I put my faith in you In you In you In you In you In you The light It glitters Your light When I stand this close It's almost blinding Turn it up Give me some room to grow Turn it up Give me the sense to know I have been changed, I have become I have flamed under the sun I'm the reflection of you From something ordinary It's so extraordinary I trust, I put my faith in you In you In you In you In you In you In you, you, you From something ordinary It's so extraordinary I just, I put my faith in you In you In you In you In you, you, you It flickers It blisters It glitters In you In you

You are

In you, you, you
