

Dave Hollister, No One Else

Staring at the clock all day I count the clouds to past the time away can't wait to get home to see your pretty face I thought about a thousands things sometimes I catch myself wondering is it really real or is it just a dream
I can't see myself without you I rather be by myself
It just so many things about you its all about you
no one else

I'm thinking back to when there was no us all I remember what a mess I was never thought I be the kind of man to ever settle down girl is more than just physical I go as far to say its spiritual its the kind of love, love that out last life.

You love me just for me give me just what I need more than enough to make me happy theres no coeincdence together ever since so everyday and thats why I can't

I can't see myself without you I rather be by myself
no one else

Sometimes we be going through that how lovers do still were together stuck like crazy glue if ever thoguht that we never part I might as well give up on love cause it has my whole heart

I can't see myself without you I rather be by myself
no one else

no one else
