

Dc Cooper, Dream

The time that the dreaming had started
Found something was wrong
No patience to fall in a deep sleep
Vision's coming through strong

Please give me a key to a door
And worry no more

If the dream will blind you, will remind you
Of me when I die and leave here
A dream reminds you, always shines through
Shows the light that took me from my fears

On the days when I'm hating my life
I'll never know why
It seems there's too much to remember
Leading me to my final goodbye

My tongue rids me of the truth
That no one will know

If the dream will blind you, will remind you
Of me when I die and leave here
A dream reminds you, always shines through
Shows the light that took me from my fears

I open my eyes to find
That I'm standing in a place
And I'm looking down...
On my final resting place

A hand that touches my face
Wipes away my tears

If the dream will blind you, always blinds you
Of me when I die and leave here
A dream reminds you, always shines through
Shows the light that took me from my fears

If the dream will blind you, will remind you
Of me when I die and leave here
A dream reminds you, always shines through
Shows the light that took me from my fears