Deadsy, Cruella

How the story rolls
Magic's taught and history's told
A glory hole
Which through gazed her eyes of gold
Those veins run cold
Mystery's wife evades her soul
Scaring to and fro

Tearing through the snow As she makes her darling coat Hoarding all the shawls Now her evil highness rose

Kind of like Shakespearean prose Without the rose Avid as she sows Cruella grows Horace and Jasper stole So let the horror flow

Black and white in hair
Elegantly gaunt in frame
A boney flare
Which christened Cruel with creepy grace
Always smokey air
Circling one lurch, Hepburn face
In her head which filled the space
Was the one hellacious taste
As she aims her fate
Nothing flees her sore embrace

As the biggest mistake that Cruel ever made Was when she left her cave and started to reign As the love for her fades Our feelings won't change So my darling Cruella We see through the grey

In her cold glare
Loveliest and rare
Frightened you'll soon wear
And this elegantly haunting is so fair
Theres no reason to part from her cold lair
She has all of the loveliest and rare
Things which frighten at first
But she'll soon wear

She's a regional spark from this nowhere And this elegant loveliness so fair Taking strolls through the dark by the moon's glare As she listens for barks in the night air Always searching for marks on the white hair

Cruel, you're so fair
