

Death Cab For Cutie, Little Fury Bugs

You'll discover that casual friends kept notes in their pockets to remember your name.
And all these places we went to see sights just gave them excuses into the game.

There's a look in the faces tonight that's untrustable as the hope that you'll never return in a while.
But you're always on time, so...

Sleeping soundly: the back of the car felt more like a home than I would have ever thought.
And through the evening the engine kept on until we hit Chicago and decided to stop.