

Deborah Cox, I never knew

It was a cold day in December I remember it so well You captured my whole being And you left me