

Deja Vu, To Deserve You

I didn't want you to see me like this
The light of the dawn can be cruel
How I want
How I want to deserve you
And if I could be granted a wish
I'd shine in your eye like a jewel
How I want to deserve you

 I see so many golden women
When they walk their feet don't touch the ground
How I want
How I want to deserve you

But me I'm always out of rhythm
My needs too demanding, too proud
How I want
How I want to deserve you

* Repeat

(I would die for you)

Could you ever love me that much
How I want
How I want to deserve you
Yes you tell me this
And I want to believe that it's true
Oh how I want to deserve you

 I didn't want you to see me like this
I'm weak and I fight like a fool
How I want
How I want to deserve you

And if I could be granted a wish
I'd shine in your eye like a jewel
How I want to deserve you ***

 Repeat

If I could be your angel
I'd trade in my arms for some wings
To keep you close to me
And if I could trade my voice
For the silence I know that you need
Ah, how I want
How I want to deserve you

(I would die for you)
How I want to deserve you

~ Repeat

Oh no, no, no, no...
