

Del Reeves, Right Back Loving You Again

Don't give me no come on glances you don't know how slim your chances are
I've been picked up and been put down this heart of mine's been shoved around
And finally pushed a little bit too far
You may be better off to walk on by and try to find somebody else
Gotta do some thinking by myself

I've gotta have time to pull myself back together
I'd be no good to no one the kind of frame of mine that I'm in
I've gotta have time to do some thinking and a little bit more drinking
And I'll be right back loving you again

[guitar]

I've seen that look so many times and in between the lines I read desire
And tenderness can turn to flame when I ain't up to puttin' out no fire
When I've had time to do some thinking and a little bit more drinking
Drop back by if you're around with them and I might be up to loving you again

I've gotta have time to pull myself...
I'll be right back loving you again
