Delight, Anew

our happiness like two hands joined for an everyday prayer an old faded picture like dry bread our world is divided into two parts somebody once so close suddenly a total stranger cut it out for a start make the best of bad times leave my mind sleepless nights in an empty house now whisper says the echo make sure a lot is gone

our world is divided into two parts somebody once so close suddenly a total stranger cut it out for a start make the best of bad times leave my mind

through your human reason you will never see unity between what is beginning and what soon will not be

I still can't understand how somebody once so close suddenly a total stranger cut it out for a start make the best of bad times leave my mind