Demi Lovato, For You

Reasons why you ran don't make you a good man Yes I understand You were on time at the wrong time I was debating but tried, and I don't know why You can act cold on a dime and so out of line

For you, I'd do anything for you Nail my heart to the ceiling I'd put my fist through a wall How come I stick around when I break down I take the blows like a champion But I get nothing at all

Reasons for my hope, All make me a big joke I already know, you were just fine, I was just fine Why did we turn a good time to a dark night? I'd give you a chance but the better man never called
