

Destiny's Child, Not What You See

No life so short it cant turn around
You cant spend your life living underground
Far from above you dont hear a sound
And Im out here - waiting
I dont understand what you want me to be
Its the dark youre hating
Its not who I am, but I know that its all that you see
No life so short that it never learns
No flame so small that it never burns
No page so sure that it never turns
And Im out here - waiting
I dont understand what you want me to be
Its the dark youre hating
Its not who I am, but I know that its all that you see
Can you live your life in a day?
Putting every moment in play?
Never hear a word that they say as the wheels go around
Tell me if you win would it show?
In a thousand years who would know?
As a million lives come and go on the same piece of ground
Ive been waiting
I dont understand what you want me to be
Its the dark youre hating
Its not who I m, but it is what you see
Tell me would you really want to See me leave this night without you?
Dont you ever look about you?
Wandering where we might be?
New York is so far away now
Tokio, Berlin and Moscow
Only dreams from here but somehow
One day that world we will see
I dont understand (8x)
I swear on tomorrow if you take this chance
Our lifes are this moment, the music, the dance
And here in this labyrinth of lost mysteries
I close my eyes on this night
And youre all that I see
Youre all that I see
