Dia Frampton, Don't Kick The Chair (feat. Kid Cud

Have you ever felt like everybody?s watching Waiting for you to lose Have you ever felt like you?re living in a spot light Searching for the real you Tell me have you ever woken up Just to wish you could close your eyes Getting hard to find a friend in a city like this Where you can?t even trust a smile

There are lonely nights when you see no hope And you?re feeling short of breath Like a whole damn world is a braided rope In a noose around your neck

Don?t kick the chair It?s gonna get better Don?t kick the chair It can only get better

Have you ever felt love, really really felt love
The kind that could save a life
But right before you know it you find out in a moment
You?re gonna have to say goodbye

There are lonely nights when you see no hope And you?re feeling short of breath Like a whole damn world is a braided rope In a noose around your neck

Don?t kick the chair It?s gonna get better Don?t kick the chair It can only get better

Yep yep you know
If I can make it through then you can to Yep yep I?m good focus like always
Feels like I?ve been hit hit hit by ten brick walls
Some people like just sit sit around and wait for you to fall
Then bounce back way quicker than you fell down
Laugh in their face like what
See nothing can break me
No no no listen

If you gotta think twice about life, Something really ain't right You don't need no help, You can be better all by yourself You can be better all by yourself You can be better all by yourself You can be better all by yourself

Don?t kick the chair It?s gonna get better Don?t kick the chair It can only get better

Don?t kick the chair (Yep Yep, you know...You can be better all by yourself) It?s gonna get better (Yep Yep, I'm good) Don?t kick the chair (Yep Yep, you know...You can be better all by yourself) It can only get better
