Diana Krall, Why Should I Care?

Was there something more I could have done? Or was I not meant to be the one? Where's the life I thought we would share? And should I care?

And will someone else get more of you? Will she go to sleep more sure of you? Will she wake up knowing you're still there? And why should I care?

There's always one to turn and walk away, And one who just wants to stay. But who said that love is always fair? And why should I care?

Should I leave you alone here in the dark, Holding my broken heart? While a promise still hangs in the air-And why should I care?
