

Dionne Warwick, Always something there to remind

I walk along the city streets You used to walk along with me And every step I take recalls How much