

Dirty Pretty Things, Chinese Dogs

Well it took you seven years
To learn my name
And I know it's all the drugs and booze
that are to blame
What a shame

Well it took me seven years
To forget your name
All the drugs, all the fools
And the hanging around
I fell out the game
What a shame

What would it take for me to be your man
What would it take for me to be your man
What would it take to make you understand
What would it take to make you understand
The world has gone cold

Well all the filthy Old Mary's and their Chinese dogs
Soho is a no-go if you know what I know
You know what I know!
But a million common people want to tear your head off
Just to show your bones to the night
Cause the night is when I'm satisfied

What would it take for me to be your man
What would it take for me to be your man
What would it take to make you understand
What would it take to make you understand
It can't be us cause the world's gone cold

And if your hat don't fit ya
It don't fucking fit ya!

What would it take for me to be your man
What would it take for me to be your man
What would it take to make you understand
What would it take to make you understand
It can't be us cause the world's gone cold
