

Dogwood, Old Friends

There were times when we were just like friends
I couldn't love you, I was afraid you'd break my heart
Was I ever really close to you?
Superficial, I'm sorry for crushing your heart

Want to find some friends
Someone who's there for you
Someone who cares
Someone who'd be true

Who were you to me?
What were you to us?
A place we did not see
Someone, you lied to me

Seems like yesterday when we'd stay up writing dumb songs
Except somethings haven't changed

I can tell we've grown up now
Overcome with pressing anger
You're welcome back with open arms

Want to find some friends
Someone who's there for you
Someone who cares
Someone who'd be true

Who were you to me?
What were you to us?
A place we did not see
Someone, you lied to me

Where have good times gone?
They're still remaining
They never really had a chance

A chance to say I'm sorry
If I had seen that you'd accept
Let's wipe the slate clean

The lesson has been learned
Still there is culture
Have I seen a brighter day?

I think it's safe to say
That things are better
I hope it stays this way

Want to find some friends
Someone who's there for you
Someone who cares
Someone who'd be true

Who were you to me?
What were you to us?
A place we did not see
Someone you lied to
