Dolly Parton, Bargain Store

My life is likened to a bargain store and I may have just what you're looking for If you don't mind the fact that all the marchandise is used With a little mending it could be as good as new

Why you take for instance this old broken heart If you will just replace the missing part You would be surprised to find how good it really is Take it and you never wil be sorry that you did The bargain store is open come inside you can easily afford the price Love is all you need to purchase all the marchandise And I can guarantee you'll be completely satisfied [guitar] Take these old used mem'ries from the past And these broken dreams and plans that didn't last I'll trade them for the future I can't use them anymore I've wasted love but I still have some more The bargain store is open... My life is likened to a bargain store... The bargain store is open come inside the bargain store is open come inside
