

Down By Law, Can't See It Still

walking down the freeway trying to waste some time looking for the answers I know I'll never find thinking about the weather and why it never rains you can run from storm clouds can't outrun pain and you can't change the weather you're changing
and you're changing now but you can't see it still stepping out of one life another straight ahead chasing all those yesterdays til you're half dead want to know the answers? you take life on the chin that's the price you pay you never know that Van Gogh died with nothing
