Down By Law, Self-Destruction

You say you've got it all figured out you live life without a doubt you say you're looking for something deeper but I can't sit here watching I won't march in time to the tune of self destruction " well I think it's time to make it on my own I'm gonna live life all alone" well open your eyes, and I'll show you a big surprise nobody makes it on their own nothing is ever gonna change, you say and there's no way you'll every leav this code you follow today you say your rules are something deeper but I see lies, and they're getting deeper you say everything else means nothing but I can't sit here watching I won't march in time to the tune of self destruction you say you've got it all figured out I'm a bit wary of those who don't see a shadow of a doubt come see me in 20 years, and I'll show you a host of change in the end, your inner spirit is all that will remain you say everything means nothing - but I won't sit here watching I won't march in time to the tune of self-destruction